GO BIG OR GO HOME

For the past few years we have been told to stay home. While that slowed some of our operations, we kept going.

In 2022, we focused our efforts on figuring out what's next for our patients and their families. How can their experience be better? What do they want and need from us? How do we help more men? And how are we going to do it?

We're ready to go big.

We're forward-focused. Looking at BIGGER and BETTER. SUSTAINABLE and STABLE. Why? Because our patients need life-changing care and families need our support.

The plans we've developed have kick-started a powerful journey of change in the fight against prostate cancer and improving men's health.

BOARD CHAIR MESSAGE

In 2022 our team focused on what's next for the PCC and for our patients and their families. With our Board, leadership team, staff, volunteers and patients, we accomplished many advancements for men's health while still navigating the final waves of the pandemic.

I'm proud to share that our new leadership team is established and is making significant strides in improving patient outcomes.

2022 ACHIEVEMENTS

- We welcomed DR. NORMAN C.W. WONG to our Board.
- Our CEO, JEFF DAVISON, was appointed in June. In less than one year, he has demonstrated the kind of leadership and vision we need to move us toward sustainable expansion and growth.
- In September, AMANDA BAXTER was appointed as Chief Operating Officer and is proving her expertise and passion to create positive and lasting transformations within our organization.
- The generous $5 million donation from the RANCE & MARILYN FISHER FAMILY CHARITABLE FOUNDATION in 2021 was put to work in 2022. Our team has been strategically planning how the funds will be used and developing implementation plans.

The last year was focused on planning for the future. I look forward to our patients and their families benefiting from the changes and improvements we're making in 2023 and in the years ahead.

Thank you to all the people who have continued to contribute and support us throughout 2022.

CEO MESSAGE

The PCC's community of more than 2,780 donors are joining us in the fight against prostate cancer and advocating for men's health.

In less than a year as CEO, I've learned a lot about the organization, prostate cancer research and the intricacies of our healthcare system. But the most unexpected and valuable learnings have come from the courageous Albertan men who have taught me about fear, pride, joy, sadness, loss and patience as they navigate their cancer journey. Every day, they remind me that we do this for the human behind the diagnosis.

Like many organizations, we spent 2022 putting the puzzle pieces back together post-pandemic.

We developed a plan to increase community reach and awareness because a significant portion of Alberta men still do not have access to the wrap-around care we provide.

WE EXPANDED OUR FUNDRAISING POTENTIAL by putting together an ambitious plan that would help us expand our reach to include all of Alberta and help sustain our organization for decades to come.

WE INCREASED OUR GOVERNMENT RELATIONS efforts to advocate for equitable care for all men across the province. And we worked on strengthening and building partnerships across our suppliers, Alberta Health Services, sponsors, advocacy groups, and more.

WE INCREASED OUR STAFF COUNT. We believe the key to making these far-reaching positive changes is our people. Investing in our employees, researchers and volunteers gives us the edge to recruit and retain expert and passionate people who get the right things done in the most creative and long-lasting ways.

All of this work supports our sustainability and expansion plans, which includes expanding our in-person and online clinics and programs. Our physical space is growing, which will allow us to care for more men and add more mental health and pre-habilitation programming.

Our commitment

We're focused on more programs, access and awareness. We know that through education and awareness, we'll magnify the importance of being proactive about health. We want to empower men and make it easy to make decisions, get treatment and support, and successfully move on from their experience with cancer.

While we can't cure the heavy emotions that come with a diagnosis, we can create new ways to successfully treat and support men's physical and mental health for generations to come – with the support of our patients, donors, volunteers, employees, researchers, partners, and community.

Jeff Davison

Chief Executive Officer

ON THE ROAD AGAIN

In June 2022, the MAN VAN™ got back on the road after being closed during the height of the pandemic. We made up for lost time and travelled to as many areas as we could for the remainder of the year.

We hosted 83 CLINICS across urban and rural Southern Alberta with an impressive 2,002 MEN coming out to receive a PSA blood test.

Prostate cancer is a disease that usually doesn't show symptoms until there's significant progression. Our vans reach men, especially in REMOTE AND VULNERABLE COMMUNITIES IN SOUTHERN ALBERTA, who otherwise may not have access to a PSA test. We help identify those at risk for advanced prostate cancer and educate men and their families about the importance of getting checked.

The MAN VAN™ is still Canada's first and only mobile men's health clinic offering free PSA blood testing used for early detection of prostate cancer in men aged 40-80 throughout Calgary and Southern Alberta. It's also the only mobile health clinic to conduct mental wellness checks.

IN THE DRIVER'S SEAT OF MEN'S HEALTH

As a retired firefighter of 32 years, I know all too well what it's like to find yourself being rushed into situations with complete uncertainty. When you get the call (emergency or prostate cancer diagnosis), you don't know what you're headed for or if you'll survive.

My involvement with the MAN VAN™ started when I was Captain at Station 32 and we supported the PCC by storing one of the vans there.

Over the years, I met a lot of the drivers and my relationship with the PCC became very special. I wanted TO FIND OTHER WAYS TO SUPPORT THE PROGRAM and rallied with colleagues to have Seton fire station store the other MAN VAN™ that was used in rural areas.

As firefighters, we put ourselves under grueling physical extremes and we're often so dedicated to saving the lives of others, we neglect to prioritize our own health. IT BECAME CLEAR HOW CRITICAL THIS PROGRAM IS TO THE MEN who don't take control of their health or who don't have access to healthcare.

I became a MAN VAN™ driver in 2015 after retirement and still truly appreciate the camaraderie and teamwork between the drivers, clinical staff and volunteers – it reminds me of the fellowship I experienced while serving on the department.

Men may be under-served in health care. The value of raising awareness and providing mobile clinics that service both urban and remote rural areas CREATES A POSITIVE IMPACT ON MEN'S HEALTH in Alberta. I've always been proud to be an Albertan and by working with Prostate Cancer Calgary, that pride has increased tenfold.

PATIENT CARE

While virtual care continued to play a key role in patient care last year – and will continue to for years to come – we were thrilled to welcome patients back in person to the Centre. Between virtual and in-person visits, WE SUPPORTED ALMOST 10,000 MEN WITH CONSULTATIONS, CLINICS, TREATMENT, EDUCATION, MENTAL HEALTH SUPPORT, AND PRE- AND POST-OPERATIVE CARE.

In September 2022, we restarted in-person clinical programs. Our clinical team continued to provide innovative strategies such as VIRTUAL GROUP SESSIONS, ENHANCED SAFETY PROTOCOLS and EFFICIENT PATIENT SCHEDULING to adapt to the ever-changing healthcare environment.

We continued to listen to the needs of our patients and their families and developed the foundation for EXPANDED PROGRAMMING, WHICH WE LOOK FORWARD TO IMPLEMENTING IN 2023. This includes new clinical programs and technology in pre-habilitation and mental wellness to optimize a patient's post-operative experience.

Mental Wellness

Finding out you have cancer and may need life-changing surgery can be overwhelming for many patients and their families. Mental health support is a critical component of complete cancer care.

In 2022, our clinical team held more than 30 PERSONAL INTERVIEWS WITH PATIENTS, SPOUSES, CAREGIVERS AND FAMILY MEMBERS on the effectiveness of our mental health programs; they confirmed the need to keep hosting and enhancing these programs.

In 2022, we developed a PRE-HABILITATION PROGRAM DESIGNED TO EMPOWER MEN WITH THE KNOWLEDGE, TOOLS AND RESOURCES to improve their physical and mental health before under going treatment for prostate cancer. We focus on preventative measures and personalized care plans to meet each patient's unique needs.

Pre-habilitation

Pre-habilitation programs - for example in exercise, nutrition and mental health - are proven to IMPROVE A PATIENT'S EXPERIENCE AND REDUCE POST-TREATMENT COMPLICATIONS. This style of personalized prescriptive care is not a standard model of care for prostate cancer patients.

“ My father had prostate cancer and I recognize the importance of having access to resources and support during the treatment process. When I became a father, it reinforced the fact that time is a precious commodity that can't be bought or replaced.

Through volunteering, I hope to help raise awareness about prostate cancer and help educate others on the importance of screening and early detection, as well as the supports available to patients. If the gift of time can be given to others, I'm more than willing to contribute to the cause.

RESEARCH WITHIN REACH

OUR PATIENTS PUT THEIR TRUST AND LIVES IN OUR HANDS.

In return, we provide them with the best care possible. The PCC brings access to global clinical trials and research that provide cutting-edge pharmacology care and the latest advancements in treatment to our community.

Our success comes from the patients who explore the unknown for many different reasons – to get access to new and possibly better treatment options, to feel empowered and more in control of their health, and to help others.

RESEARCH HIGHLIGHTS

Global pharmaceutical trial

The PCC began participating in a GLOBAL RESEARCH DRUG TRIAL WITH PATIENTS WHO HAVE METASTATIC CASTRATION-SENSITIVE PROSTATE CANCER WITH A GENE MUTATION.

This cancer spreads to other parts of the body other than the prostate gland but can still be managed with hormonal treatments that reduces testosterone. The study will test whether combining two drugs (talazoparib and enzalutamide) is more effective in reducing tumor size or slowing tumor growth.

Complex kidney cysts

Approximately 35 PATIENTS ARE PARTICIPATING IN A RESEARCH STUDY to determine if patients living with COMPLEX KIDNEY CYSTS should continue with active surveillance or have them surgically removed. With new data showing that a large number of these cysts are removed even though they are benign or not aggressive, active surveillance may be the better – and less-invasive treatment option, resulting in fewer unnecessary surgeries and better patient outcomes.

Genitourinary cancer genomics

Genitourinary (GU) oncology focuses on cancers found in the urinary system and the male reproductive system. DR. TAREK A. BISMAR IS INVESTIGATING THE MOLECULAR BACKGROUND OF GU CANCERS. When we know what gene is associated with a patient's cancer, we can then give them a particular drug and treatment option that will be the most effective.

Alberta Prostate Cancer Research Initiative (APCaRI) registry

The PCC continues to make progress to recruit patients to the APCaRI registry. At the end of 2022, WE REACHED AN ENROLLMENT OF 1,800 PATIENTS. We improved our recruitment strategies, enhanced engagement with patients and their families, and leveraged new technologies to make it easier for patients to participate.

APCaRI brings together a multi-disciplinary team of prostate cancer scientists, physicians, patients and other professionals who work together to SPEED UP THE DELIVERY OF NEW RESEARCH IDEAS FROM THE LABORATORY TO THE CLINIC.

The registry monitors the patterns of care and outcomes of men diagnosed with prostate cancer throughout Alberta.

In 2022, Nanostics, an Edmonton-based medical device and biotechnology company, received approval to market and sell their ClarityDX Prostate® test in Europe and is seeking approval in North America.

This new blood test is expected to be more accurate in detecting prostate cancer. Results from clinical trials showed a 40% INCREASE IN ACCURACY over the current PSA testing. We're proud to report that our contributions to APCaRI's registry and helped make this happen.

EVENTS & FUNDRAISING

We were thrilled to connect again, in-person, with our supporters for fun, food and festivities at our events. Despite still being in a pandemic, people came out to eat, golf, laugh, ride, and run in their underwear. We were so GRATEFUL TO COME TOGETHER AND CELEBRATE in support of men's health and the fight against prostate cancer.

EVENTS

COWBOYS' BLUE BALL COMEDY NIGHT

At the 4th annual event of stand-up comedy performances, the crowd brought belly laughs and bucks to help raise awareness about men's health and prostate cancer.

NAKED ESPY

At the 9th annual event, 50 brave men ran around Inglewood wearing nothing but boxers to create awareness about the importance of getting tested for prostate cancer.

REMINGTON GOLF TOURNAMENT

At the 15th annual golf tournament, guests and sponsors raised a remarkable amount with proceeds going directly to the PCC. Since the tournament started, the Classic remains a critical fundraising event for PCC.

PRIDDIS GOLF TOURNAMENT

The Classic continues to be a major source of funding for PCC. We can't wait to celebrate 20 years in August 2023.

I've been doing NAKED ESPY for three years and I'm thrilled to support PCC knowing the funds stay in Alberta and help men in my community. My uncle was affected by prostate cancer and I believe everyone has some sort of connection to cancer. It's important to raise money and awareness. I'm not 40 yet but I believe in being proactive about men's health and having open conversations. I like that NAKED ESPY helps to normalize these conversations.

BIG BALL GALA – WOMEN FOR MEN'S HEALTH

This powerful event, raises awareness about gender health disparities. It empowers women to create a support network for the men in their lives. Funds raised continued to fund the development of the Kawakami Pre-habilitation Clinic and PCC programs.

WOMEN FOR MEN'S HEALTH CHARITY BREAKFAST & WELLNESS FAIR

Almost 200 guests attended the inaugural event that featured a wellness fair. The theme focused on the importance of mental health and taking care of your health at every age.

Marco Carducci, age 25 and goalkeeper for the Canadian Premier League Cavalry Football Club, spoke about his testicular cancer experience, putting a spotlight on the importance of early detection.

Blair Ector, a successful criminal defense lawyer, shared his story of childhood physical and mental trauma, substance use, and how he survived because of his family and the resources available.

RIDE FOR DAD

Every year across the country, thousands of participants, supporters and friends hop on their bikes at the annual Motorcycle Ride for Dad in support of the Prostate Cancer Fight Foundation.

All funds raised stay local. The Calgary chapter has been supporting the PCC since 2008 raising more than $675,000 for prostate cancer research, the MAN VAN™ and clinical care.

Bikers ride the distance for all kinds of reasons – in honour of a loved one who passed from prostate cancer or another type of cancer, or to help raise awareness of the importance of getting checked. It's run by dedicated volunteers who organize community fundraising events and rally sponsors and participants.

Year after year, riders consistently show up and donate in support of men's health. The loyalty and miles add up – continuing to pave the way for the PCC to deliver exceptional care for men and their families.

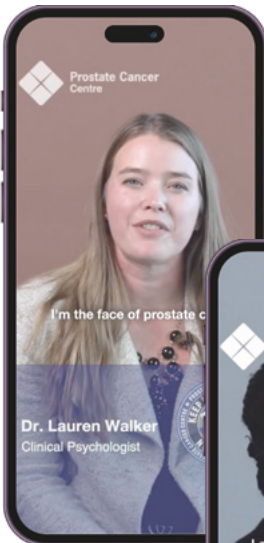

FUNDRAISING

Keep it in Alberta Campaign

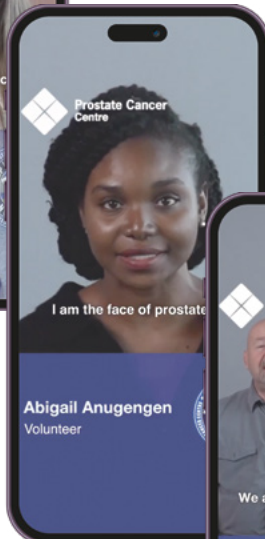

Our Keep it in Alberta Campaign ran in November and RAISED NEARLY $210,000. Donations to this campaign make sure that EVERY DOLLAR RAISED SUPPORTS THE MEN IN OUR COMMUNITY.

Prostate cancer affects the patient, his family and friends. It impacts everyone in the community, including volunteers and researchers, nurses and doctors. On social media, we posted a video every day of the month showing the different faces of prostate cancer. Here are a few faces and their reason for getting involved with the PCC in the fight against prostate cancer.

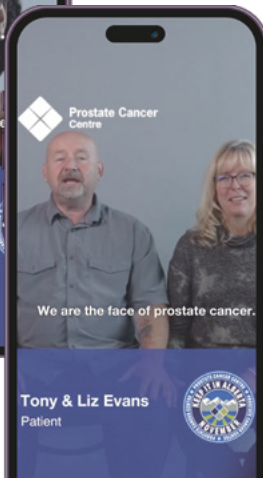

DR. LAUREN WALKER, clinical psychologist

We know that prostate cancer can have a profound impact on sexual function and on couples' relationships. It's not something we spend a lot of time talking about. We're here to change that.

ABIGAIL ANUGENGEN, volunteer

I have a friend who lost their Dad to prostate cancer and it was a trying time for the family. I wouldn't want any family to go through this so that is why I volunteer and advocate for early testing.

TONY & LIZ EVANS, patient

Nine years ago I went to the MAN VAN™ at a motorcycle show. I was told my test was a little high and later on found out it turned into prostate cancer. I eventually had my prostate removed. They call it couples cancer because we both deal with the effects of cancer and what happens after surgery.

THE DONOR WALL

THANK YOU

We're grateful to all the donors who have made the PCC a philanthropic priority in our community and supported our highest priorities and aspirations.

Thank you to our incredible staff, volunteers and board members for their dedication to providing the best possible care for prostate cancer patients in Southern Alberta.

With your continued support we're pushing boundaries in clinical care and helping researchers find breakthrough treatments for all those affected by prostate cancer today and those who may face it tomorrow.
